

Welcome — and thank you for participating!

This survey is part of a master's thesis focused on designing a clear and consistent icon library for archaeological site maps. The research is being carried out within the Cartography M.Sc. Programme at the Technical University of Vienna.

We're looking for your expertise and honest impressions. There are no right or wrong answers — your input as someone who works with or interprets archaeological or cartographic information is what matters most.

Your participation is entirely voluntary. The survey is anonymous, and all responses will be kept strictly confidential and used only for academic research. You're free to stop at any point. If you have any questions, feel free to contact: Madeleine Noet at e1234007@student.tuwien.ac.at

By continuing, you agree to take part in this study and to the use of your anonymized responses for research purposes.

What to expect:

A few short demographic questions

Icon recognition task

A classification activity and some follow-up questions

The whole process should take about 15-20 minutes. If at any point, you are unsure of an answer, you may skip the question.

If you accessed this survey using a personalized link or access code, please note that this code is stored separately and cannot be connected to your individual responses.

Thank you again — your feedback is a vital part of improving archaeological map communication!

This section explores how you currently use symbols or icons on archaeological or thematic maps. Your input will help identify common practices and gaps in existing symbology.

A1. Do you currently use a predefined archaeological map icon set in your work?

Yes

No

A2. How would you describe the clarity of the symbols you currently use?

(skip if not relevant)

(1 = not clear at all, 3= neutral, 5 = very clear)

1

2

3

In this section, you will be given an image of a newly created icon that represents a point location on an archaeological site map. A point location is anything that is symbolized with a point on a map, not a line or a polygon. They all represent different artifacts and/or items that are commonly found on archaeological site maps.

This section presents a few icons within simulated map settings. The goal is to evaluate how well the symbols communicate meaning when seen in context—alongside other map elements or archaeological features. Your feedback will help refine the icon designs for real-world use.

This task asks you to group icons based on how you interpret or categorize them. For reference, a family of artifacts here refers to a class or group of artifacts organized based on shared characteristics like material, manufacturing technique, or form.

O1. Which of these icons belong the same family of artifacts?

O2. Select the icon which does not belong in the family of artifacts: flaked stone

In this final section, we ask a few reflective questions about your experience with the icon tasks. Your feedback will guide future design improvements and iterations of the symbol set.
